Segulah IV acquires Scan Coin

Segulah IV L.P. has entered into a binding agreement to acquire Scan Coin AB, a Malmö-based company that is a global leader in automatic coin and bank note processing.

Scan Coin, which was founded in 1966 by the entrepreneur Gunnar Sandberg, is owned by the Ovin family. The family, which has owned Scan Coin since 1986, will remain as owners of 30 % of the company subsequent to Segulah's acquisition.

By developing and producing a number of advanced and innovative products, Scan Coin has built up a large circle of loyal customers that includes banks, cash-in-transit companies and bus service operators all over the world.

In recent years the company has also started providing the retail sector with solutions for efficient cash handling.

With the help of both software and hardware, Scan Coin has, among other things, developed solutions that make it possible to recirculate cash locally, something that is expected to become increasingly important in the future. Local recirculation involves a supermarket, for example, being able to reuse cash received from consumers. Recirculation requires, among other things, local authenticity control and quality assurance, something which Scan Coin can now offer its customers.

After Segulah's acquisition has been completed, Lars Brodd will be appointed as the new Chairman of Scan Coin.

"Scan Coin is a first-class Swedish export company with excellent products. I can see huge development potential and I am looking forward to taking on the position", says Lars Brodd.

"With Segulah as its new main owner, Scan Coin will have the necessary resources for exploiting the potential on the market. It is exciting, important and good for the future of the company", says Rickard Ovin, current Chairman of Scan Coin.

"We are very pleased about this transaction and that we together with the Ovin family and the employees will have the opportunity to make Scan Coin even more successful", Sebastian Ehrnrooth, Segulah Advisor AB, confirms.

The acquisition is subject to approval from relevant competition authorities, and closing is expected to take place in November.
